

NON-HUMAN INTELLIGENCE

Why we exist.

A belief before a product. The reason NOHUMA builds managed agents instead of selling software.

By NOHUMA, an AI systems studio. Built on Simon Sinek's Golden Circle: why, then how, then what.

THE WHY

Your time should not be spent on work a machine can own.

Not because machines are better.

Because the recurring work draining your week is beneath you. It is beneath the person who built the business. It is beneath the price of your attention.

People do not buy what you do. They buy why you do it. So we start here, before the agent, before the price.

THE ENEMY

The weakness is inside the business, not outside it.

The leads go cold because no one replies in time. The inbox grows because no one triages it. The follow-up dies because the human is already full. The enemy is not the market. It is the unaccountable default that lets the work pile up.

Every lead you miss while you sleep is a competitor's customer by morning.

THE BELIEF

A machine can own the work. A human should own the decision.

We do not believe in replacing judgement. We believe in removing the repetitive weight that stops judgement from happening at all. The agent does the doing. You stay in the room where it matters.

This is not automation for its own sake. It is accountability for your own time.

THE WINDOW

54%

of UK firms report using AI in 2026. The majority still do not, and most that do are not getting value.

The gap between using AI and winning with it is where the belief becomes money. Most companies have not crossed it. That is the opening.

THE HOW

We build the agent. We run it. You watch it land.

- A managed Non-Human Intelligence, not a tool you operate
- Its own computer, email, line, and your channels
- One brain plus four specialists, isolated for safety
- Self-hosted on your server, data stays yours

The how exists only to serve the why. Remove the work, keep the control.

THE WHAT

Flat £5,000 a month.
Live in 48 hours or refunded.

One workflow, owned end to end. No setup, no seats, no usage maths. If it has not saved more than its cost in human hours by day 30, the first month is refunded, measured against your own timesheet.

The what is the smallest part. By the time you read the price, the belief has already done the selling.
