

Seven objections. One answer.

One recurring
workflow owned.
£5,000 a month.
Live in 48 hours.

Hiring is the expensive option.

A junior's salary is the smallest number on the bill. Add tax, software, training, and the months before they are useful. Owl is one flat five thousand a month, live in 48 hours.

It replaces the work, not the people.

Owl takes the recurring task your best person dreads — the quotes, the follow-ups, the admin that eats the day. Your team moves up to the work only humans should do.

Your data never leaves its own box.

Owl runs on an isolated server with scoped access to only what it needs.

Portable, so you take it with you. We cannot see what you have not permitted.

If it breaks, you don't pay.

Owl is live in 48 hours or your first month is refunded. At day 30, if it has not saved you more than £5,000, we refund that month too.

ChatGPT answers. Owl does.

ChatGPT waits for your team to type the right prompt and check the output. Owl owns one workflow end to end — it acts, follows up, closes the loop while you sleep.

Fast is the point, not the risk.

The stack is already built — one brain and four specialists, configured, not coded from zero. We deploy it within two days. If we miss, the first month is free.

Leave anytime. Take it with you.

Cancel whenever you want — no contract, no notice, no exit fee. Your Owl runs on a portable server, so the work and the setup travel with you.

The first responder wins.

7x

HBR: firms replying within an hour are 7x more likely to qualify a lead. 78% buy from the first to respond. Book the call. Live in 48 hours.